

JAMES GARY HINES II - Tour Leader

"Bwana James" as he is known to his guides in Africa, has always had a keen eye for design, doing technical drawings and invention ideas in his spare time. After meeting his wife Jan, James began to have the opportunity to photograph wildlife in conjunction with their business. His immediate affinity for the genre was evident with Jan using many of his photos for reference for her fine art paintings. After switching to digital from film, James immediately became entranced with it, learning all the nuances of digital film processing and publishing.

Jan and James expanded their business in 2010 to include selling his photography. He sells his photos as fine art printed on canvas with his own industrial printer - thus being able to control everything from start to finish. He does a unique thing in the photography field - besides selling much of his work as small limited editions - he also does one he calls a "ONE" where he produced only one of certain image (usually large). This way the client is getting sort of an "original unreproduced painting."

*His marketing description of this is "One photographer * One Moment * One Collector. James is also becoming proficient in videography.*

. He and Jan have been together 26 years and married 16 years this October. They honeymooned in Kenya.
